Rolling stock in a rail transport system generally encounters lower frictional resistance than road vehicles, so passenger and freight cars (carriages and wagons) can be coupled into longer trains. The operation is carried out by a railway company, providing transport between train stations or freight customer facilities. Power is provided by locomotives which either draw electric power from a ...

The railway signalling system used across the majority of the United Kingdom rail network uses line-side signals to control the movement of trains.. The current system mostly uses two, three, and four aspect colour light signals using track circuit block signalling. It is a progression of the original absolute block signalling that can still be found on many secondary lines.
