Originally designed by Browning family member Bruce Browning, the original civilian BAR was the rifle that set the standard for autoloading hunting rifles. The latest MK 3 version builds on the previous iterations with completely new styling, fine oil finish walnut, a precision alloy receiver and a hammer-forged barrel.

For a lot of hunters a rifle like the BAR Match and the new MK3 DBM makes a lot of sense, especially in Europe. I was afraid that Browning would take a lot of the features away in the new version, but apart from the pistol grip which seems gone, most things look OK or improved.

The BAR Match is dead, long live the BAR MK 3 DBM

The BAR MK3 is fitted with inter-changeable recoil pads. Depending on the model of gun, Inflex II and Classic recoil pads of different thicknesses are available: 12 mm, 20 mm, 25 mm. With these recoil pads you can adjust the length of your stock without the slightest difficulty.
